The SuperValu Tidy Towns competition brings out the best in communities and people across the length and breadth of the country. Each year thousands of committed volunteers get involved to make their community a better place to live.

In 2012 we launched the SuperValu Tidy Towns competition by asking for 30,000 volunteers to get their hands dirty.

We also asked you to nominate your local SuperValu Tidy Towns Hero. We were looking for your help to recognise the hard work, dedication and commitment of those individuals who are the backbone of your community and this great competition. Without the dedication of these individuals this competition could not survive and grow in strength year after year.

We received hundreds of entries to this section of the competition. In 2012 we will recognise the first thirteen of these SuperValu Tidy Towns Heroes, but would like to acknowledge and thank the 30,000 volunteers who make this great competition what it is and who continue to build vibrant local communities.

WINNER'S REPORT

Abbeyshrule, Co. Longford

Overall Development Approach:

Your adjudicator is pleased to welcome Abbeyshrule Tidy Villages to the SuperValu National Tidy Towns Competition 2012. Thank you for your entry form and accompanying appendices. Your submission is comprehensive and straight off tells the adjudicator of your commitment to doing well in this competition. You have maintained a detailed record of your work since your last adjudication and the list of projects completed is comprehensive. The size of your committee, 26 members, is very impressive and it is encouraging to read that you enjoy excellent voluntary cooperation from the wider community. Indeed this was evident during our adjudication visit. We like that you identify the skills and expertise of your volunteers each year and assign tasks accordingly and we were interested to read the various skills that your committee and volunteers have identified and honed. You are accomplished at collaborating and working with various organisations/agencies, both locally and nationally, and this has been demonstrated by your ability to source funding and support for your work programmes. You are very active all year round and recognise the huge level of action required in each category to compete at such a high level in the competition. You are very organised and competent at communicating with the local community and you do so by a large variety of mediums. We visited your website which is very informative and up-to-date and particularly liked your tagline 'Creating a Sustainable Village Community'. As a first time visitor to Abbeyshrule the commitment you show to the presentation of your village is evident at every turn. This adjudicator feels that you have drawn on the great ethos of voluntary endeavour for this competition and the widespread community spirit and used it as a platform to initiate real change at a local level. We are very impressed. To progress that extra bit have you considered establishing a Junior Tidy Towns Committee?

The Built Environment:

This year you have had the majority of your existing timber lighting poles replaced by decorative black lighting standards complete with energy efficient bulbs, which further enhance the village core. The roof of the Waterways building has been repaired and we noted that you had enhanced three windows of the old furniture factory with old reproduction photographs relevant to the area. The adjudicator thought that the wall at the village pump would benefit from painting but surprisingly when we were finishing up our adjudication visit, three people were setting up to begin painting here! You have painted the uninhabited house at the aqueduct with the assistance of Waterways Ireland. Roney's Inn was being painted during our visit; the new colour choice tones in well with the surrounding buildings in this vicinity and enhances the appearance of the property immensely. As always, the Rustic Inn was well presented. We noted that a small section near the corner at Scally's Bridge was in need of repair. We like your plans for an integrated playground at the canal harbour and are pleased that you have begun working on the accessibility issue to the Abbey.

Landscaping:

In general terms the landscaping is to a very high standard throughout and it is no surprise to learn that you are also participating in the Entente Florale Competition this year. The adjudicator was very impressed with the Whitworth Aqueduct on the Royal Canal and the area around here is well landscaped. Your tree tagging is quite unusual! We wondered if you use this as a management tool and record details such as, when your trees were planted, species etc. The Green area across from the Rustic Inn is a relaxing haven. We noted that work is ongoing beside the village pump; a small area was cordoned off during our visit. We were unaware as to what is being undertaken in this area as this was not mentioned in your application.

Wildlife and Natural Amenities:

We note that one of your committee members has recently attended a course given by the Irish Wildlife Trust on how to care for rivers and streams – how will you disseminate this information to the community? We know that you have a Biodiversity Action Plan and also have the 'Scott Cawley Biodiversity Study' but you did not include these in your submission. Please bear in mind that relevant supporting documents should be included each year as the adjudicator does not have sight of what you provided the previous year. Congratulations on the success of your essay competition and we liked how you use the community notice board to display the winners of your competitions. You have a number of good interpretative signs in and around the village. Your three walking trails are noted all which incorporate walking along the Grand Canal, the River Inny and the local peat bogs and your accompanying Abbeyshrule Walkways brochure is concise yet informative. We admired the ruins of the mill at Clynan Bridge while on the 'Walkway 2' and were interested to read in your 'Wildlife in Abbeyshrule' brochure that it supports a number of bat species. We saw the wildflower seeds sown at the wall in the vicinity of the Bring Banks. Pay good attention to these to ensure they flourish.

Litter Control:

We were surprised to read and then see at first hand that you have removed litter bins from the village. Your confidence in your litter monitoring and control measures is great to have taken this bold move. A review of assessing the impact of removing the bins would be interesting for next year. On our adjudication visit we did not see any signs of litter thus - so far so good! The bring banks were well presented and very clean.

Tidiness:

Thank you for acting upon many, if not all, of the comments raised last year. This adjudicator thought that your attention to detail this year is to be commended. The upgraded works by Airtricity and ESB networks in removing overhead cables in the village core is more aesthetically pleasing. Weeding at the base of walls and along the footpaths is excellent. We pondered your comment regarding engaging with the local farming community to be user friendly when transporting silage, turf and hay through the village and approach roads during the harvest season. We would be interested to know what you meant by this. This adjudicator feels that your ability to retain the sense of a traditional countryside village is one of your key strengths.

Waste Minimisation:

You have been extremely busy this year under this work category with various worthwhile projects. We visited your community composter near the entrance to Corncrake Meadow, perhaps re-run a section in your Newsletter on the correct things that can go into this composter to refresh the minds of those using it as we noted quite large cuttings from fir trees which will not breakdown well. We also noted from your Newsletter that you ran a successful 'Bring and Take' reuse event. You are to be commended for working with the Environmental Awareness Officer in Longford County Council in relation to your waste minimisation project this year. You successfully enlisted six different families to participate in this worthwhile project where advice was given specifically in relation to each household on waste reduction and energy saving measures. We note that the second phase of this project involves further energy assessments and that the Environmental Awareness Officer will also monitor and report on the findings. This really is a truly excellent project which addresses the ethos of this category very well. We are sure that the project has raised great awareness amongst these participating families and hopefully they now are beginning to see the financial benefits of putting waste reduction measures into action. Now that the Environmental Awareness Officer has assisted you in getting this project up and running with six families could you perhaps be able to initiate this again this coming year with a different set of families? You may be interested in the Green Home Programme which may also assist you. The Green Home Programme run by An Taisce was developed as a framework to support and encourage all householders to reduce their environmental impact, it examines waste, electricity water etc.. It is supported by the Environmental Protection Agency's National Waste Prevention Programme and can be undertaken by an individual householder or a household can be part of a community. You could contact Green Home, www.greenhome.ie, and investigate if Abbeyshrule Tidy Villages could participate as a community. Your reuse of old teapots as bird nesting pots is innovative but we wonder if you have witnessed any birds taking up residence in the pots? We noted your poster competition 'Waste not Want not' in your village notice board and also liked that you ran an event in conjunction with the Abbeyshrule Craft Fair and the St. Sinneach's National School Parents Association where waste materials were reused as craft and play resources. This adjudicator particularly likes how you are creating fun opportunities to get the local children involved in your work programmes and interact with their local environment whilst developing positive attitudes and approaches to waste management, in particular reduction, reuse and recycling.

Residential Areas:

Housing quality is excellent in Abbeyshrule. All individual houses are presented extremely well. Cornrake Meadow was admired but we noted the partly unfinished section which is boarded up and that part of the roadway needs completing. Landscaping work was ongoing at Barley Gardens on our visit. There are some extremely well maintained individual gardens but one really stood out to this adjudicator and we note from your appendices that this is George's garden!

Roads, Streets and Back Areas:

The approach from Colehill is delightful; the undergrounding of the cables certainly enhances the view towards the village from this direction. A man was varnishing the fence on the approach here to create a fresh impact on arrival, well done. The new footpath from the bridge to the Bog Road was under construction on adjudication day. The adjudicator enquired with one of the workmen as to when the footpath would be completed and was informed it would be in a few days time. The adjudicator thought that it was a pity that these upgrade works were not completed in time for our adjudication visit as this may have bolstered your marks in this category. The approach from the airfield is faultless.

General Impression:

This adjudicator had heard a great deal of talk over the years about the village of Abbeyshrule and was looking forward to the adjudication visit with much anticipation. Located between the Royal Canal and the River Inny, we are pleased to report that Abbeyshrule did not disappoint. On the day we visited, the sun was out, flowers were blooming, and the village was gleaming. Abbeyshrule Tidy Villages - you have raised the bar this year. Grass was being cut at Our Lady of Lourdes Church, the fencing on the approach from Colehill was being painted, a man was collecting leaves at the canal harbour, a householder was painting their boundary wall, landscaping works were underway at Barley Garden and as already mentioned the village pump was receiving a make-over – there was certainly a buzz in the air and a real sense of community spirit and pride of place. Congratulations and well done to all involved this year.

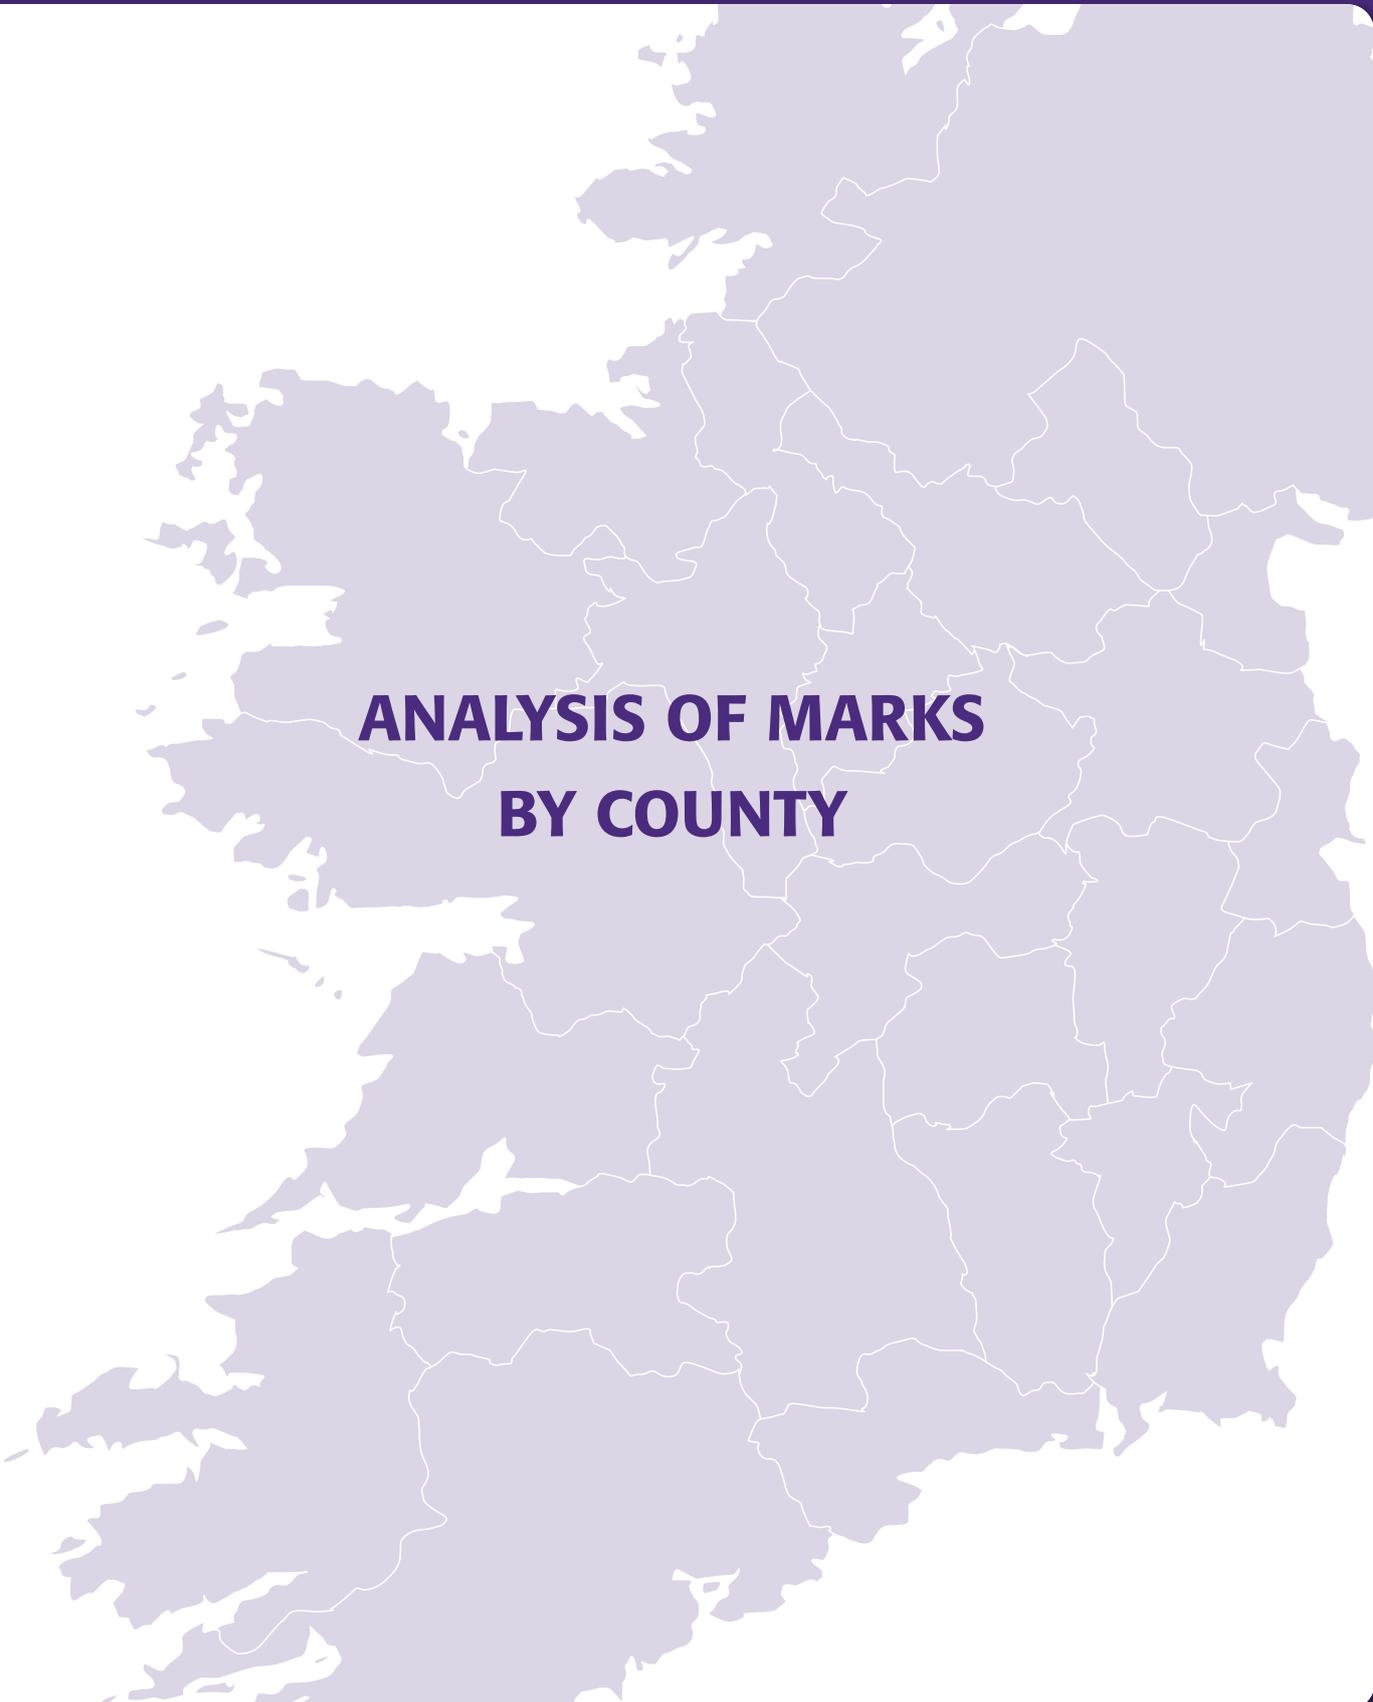

Second Round Adjudication:

Driving along a pleasant country road I came to a point where the grass verge was neatly cut and, as I was not here before, I guessed I was in Abbeyshrule. This was confirmed after a short distance on reaching the bi-lingual sign for the village that was adorned with attractive flowers. A small notice attached to the sign had a message "text alert area". Next I saw the well-kept graveyard enclosed with a great traditional stone wall with a view of the ruins of the Cistercian Abbey. A good road safety measure at the corner is in place where the wall of the graveyard is replaced with a splendid railing giving a good view of the road. The new footpath looked well and is a welcome feature on this busy road. Already I found there was a distinctive flavour to the location.

There is limited commercial development in this compact village where the Rustic Inn stands out, at the back of which there is a splendid mural that makes this part of the canal a most picturesque location. I admired another well kept Bar that was freshly painted. The bridges display really fine traditional building and engineering qualities and it is a testament to those great people that worked in the creation of these structures that are as strong and sturdy today. It is delightful to see these bridges so well maintained and one portion was expertly repaired in recent times. All of these bridges are quite picturesque and the aqueduct taking the canal over the river Inney is really spectacular. The old furniture store is now a place of considerable interest with splendid artistic works on both sides and front. It is delightful to see there the words of that great song; Take me back to the good old days, To the days when I went to school, The times were bad but I never was sad, On the roads round Abbeyshrule. The really good art work is continued with the special painting on the window of the shed near the well signposted recycling area. The two traditional water pumps are notable historic items and the white washed wall at one of them makes a big impact. The splendid displays of landscaping consistent around the village cover all available ground, and long stretches of well manicured open grassed spaces, plus unspoiled aesthetics are added to with modern public lighting standards. Suitable picnic furniture makes outstanding outdoor facilities where the seating consists of good quality timber products. A high standard is set near the bring bank at both sides of the canal with a variety of delightful flowers viewed from a wonderfully polished granite seat, and this is matched in many other locations, notably in George's "four season's garden". I admired the many tubs of flowers that adorn the surroundings such as at the bring bank, at the church, at the water pumps and so on and further colour and freshness is added with hanging baskets and window boxes. It is obvious that you are rewarded by getting compost from the two community composters. The Bog Oak features are impressive and remind us of the proximity of local bogs. Good quality noticeboards give news of parish matters plus local information for visitors, history of the corcrake cluster sculpture, wildlife birds and fish, details of the Abbey and so on. Other notices remind us of bird sanctuary areas. The housing estates are well presented and some unfinished work in one is left in a responsible manner and we look forward to its completion. A two storey white house with a red door really stood out in the centre of the village, with some other beauties around the area. The Waterways House looked well and it would be great if it was occupied. Energy and leadership abounds and show what can be achieved from an enthusiastic group of people. We are reminded of a condition of the competition that additional information should be brief and only relevant to this year's competition unless it is part of a multi annual plan. I appreciate that you have put in a huge effort in putting together your entry, but you could cut back on some of the additional information. The first round adjudicator has given you a comprehensive report and it is my pleasant task to confirm these findings.
